++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cloudy, wet morning, brighter this afternoon. Breezy.

Today:
Bright start, especially in east, but increasing cloud brings outbreaks of occasionally heavy rain southeast to most this morning. The rain clears soon after midday to leave a brighter afternoon with sunny spells and a few showers. Strong northwesterly winds. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Tonight:
Any showers soon dying out this evening with clear spells developing. Cloud increasing again overnight with patchy light rain affecting western counties by dawn. Winds easing. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Monday:
A rather cloudy day with outbreaks of mainly light rain spreading east. Drier conditions with some late bright spells reach western parts towards dusk. Mainly light winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Early rain soon clearing Tuesday then dry with sunny spells with strong northwesterly winds easing. Dry and largely sunny on Wednesday but Thursday looks cloudier with patchy drizzle in north.
